

Slot at top for picture wire

'Capture clips' and steel mounting plate

Ears for 'capture clips'

Complete unit showing 'Key pin' in red

Art Guard

For further information please contact

monmo.Gallery

(09) 421 -1888

info@monmogallery.co.nz

monmo.Gallery is a division of Monmo Enterprises Limited

Could your valuable artworks be easily stolen?
Not any more!

Screwed to the wall or attached to our inexpensive Hanging System, Art Guard replaces traditional picture hooks.

Art Guard deters the opportunistic theft of your valuable paintings and wall hung art.

How does it work?

When a hanging wire is placed into the thin slot at the top of the security device, it depresses a weight sensitive switch. This is quickly and easily activated when the user pulls down on a strap hanging behind the artwork, removing the 'key pin' from the bottom of the unit. Any tampering or unauthorized attempt to remove the artwork will set off an alarm. The alarm will continue to sound until the key pin is replaced into its jack.

Typical 'snatch and run' thefts are further deterred by steel spring 'capture clips' connected from 'ears' on the Art Guard device to the hanging wire on the artwork. This prevents the artwork from being pulled from the wall or accidentally dropped.

Because your Art Guard device is battery operated, it is freely moved, reusable and can be applied to any hanging system. The two AAA batteries give approximately one year of active service and the Art Guard device includes an audible, low battery alert.

The Art Guard plastic case which houses the electronics is built around a steel plate on the wall side of the unit. Welded to the plate is an extended steel collar that supports the screw and prevents cracking of the plastic housing. The plate not only enables the device to safely support up to 11kgs but also integrates the 'ears' from which the capture clips are attached, adding structure to security.

Ask Warren Brown from Monmo. Enterprises for a FREE QUOTE and the best possible affordable solution for your security needs.

As suppliers of The Hanging System, we are also experts in the installation of Art and Objects in a manner which will enhance your environment and also secure those precious items.